How to Count Crocodiles

Once there was a monkey who was always up to tricks and getting into mischief.

One morning Monkey came dancing down to the river. The first thing she saw, way over on the other side, was a mango tree laden with greeny-yellowy-orange mangoes.

Just looking at those mangoes made her feel hungry.

"I must have some mangoes!" she said. "I must!
But how can I cross to the other side?"

Monkey sat and she thought. And then ... she saw a dark snout and two slit eyes, floating down the river.

"That's Old Snapper-jaws, if I'm not mistaken," she said. "He could be useful." She called out,
"King Crocodile!"

Crocodile lifted his head out of the water.

"I have been thinking," said Monkey. "There are lots of crocodiles living around here. But I bet there are more monkeys. Lots and lots more."

"Not true!" said Crocodile. "There are lots more crocodiles than monkeys!"

3 Why did Crocodile say "Not true"?

because he didn't understand

because he had counted them

because he didn't agree

because he was king

4 Who said there were more crocodiles than monkeys?

"We could do some counting," said Monkey, "and find out."

"And how could we do that?" asked Crocodile.

"Well," said Monkey, "you could go up and down the river and tell all the crocodiles to come here. Then I could do the counting."

"After that, you could get all the monkeys to come," said Crocodile, and he grinned. "And we could ea ... ooops ... I mean count them."

5 What did Monkey want Crocodile to do?

6 Why did Crocodile grin?

to show his teeth

he thought Monkey was funny

to show he could count

I2 What was Monkey really trying to do?

Monkey danced over to the mango tree. She climbed it, reached out, picked a greeny-yellowy-orange mango, and took a big bite. "Ooooh!" she said. "This mango is scr-ump-tious!"

"Now," said Crocodile, "go and fetch all the monkeys and line them up along the bank so I can count them."

"Go and fetch all the monkeys?" said Monkey with a cheeky smile. "I wasn't planning to do that!"

"And why not?" asked Crocodile.

"Old Snapper-jaws," said Monkey,
"I don't care whether there are more monkeys.
I only wanted to cross the river so I could eat
some mangoes."

Then twenty-nine angry crocodiles went swimming off to look for their dinner. And, to this day, what crocodiles like to eat most of all is ... monkey! The trouble is monkeys are very, very, hard to catch.

Catching Crocodiles

One of Steve's jobs was to catch crocodiles so they could be moved away from places where they might hurt or scare people. Catching crocodiles is hard and dangerous work but Steve was very good at it. He caught his first crocodile when he was only nine years old.

Steve was very careful not to hurt the crocodile. He jumped onto it and held it around the neck.

At first the crocodile tried very hard to get away. Steve had to be very strong and hold onto the crocodile until it got tired and stopped fighting. When the crocodile was still, Steve put it into a special bag. The special bag stopped the crocodile from moving about or biting.

Steve then took the crocodile to a new home.

Meet the Crocodile

Feet

The crocodile's back feet are webbed, like a frog's.

Tail

The crocodile moves itself in the water by beating its tail from side to side.

Nostrils

The crocodile's nostrils are right at the end of its snout. It uses its nostrils to breathe when the rest of its body is under water.

Eyes

The crocodile's eyes are close together on the top of its head. This means it can lie almost under the water but can still see what is going on.

Teeth

The crocodile has more than 60 sharp pointed teeth. Crocodiles lose and grow new teeth all the time.

Amazing

Food

Crocodiles do not need to feed often. Some crocodiles only eat twice a year.

Crocodiles do not chew their food. They tear off large chunks and swallow them whole. Stones have been found in the stomachs of crocodiles. The stones help the crocodiles to break up the food.

*This young crocodile must learn to hunt.
It looks for food that it can swallow whole,
such as this dragonfly.*

26 How do crocodiles eat their food?
